

The Board of Directors of the Competitive Enterprise Institute
Cordially Invites You to Participate in its Annual Dinner and Reception

To Be Hosted at the JW Marriott in Washington, DC, on June 20th, 2013.

Our table sponsorship levels commemorate the five metals selected by free-market economist and CEI friend Julian Simon in his famous wager with ecologist Paul Ehrlich. Ehrlich bet the price of these metals would go up because of increasing scarcity; Simon predicted the price would go down because markets and human ingenuity would solve the scarcity problem. Simon won, and that's why the bet is a symbol of freedom, innovation, and prosperity. To honor Julian Simon and his defence of human achievement, CEI will present at its Annual Dinner the Julian L. Simon Memorial Award.

The 2013 Simon Award winner is Deirdre N. McCloskey, the Distinguished Professor of Economics, History, English, and Communication at the University of Illinois, Chicago.

Our Master of Ceremonies will be Kristina Kendall, executive producer for John Stossel on the Fox Business Channel.
