

About the Authors

Fred L. Smith, Jr. is the founder and president of CEI. Before founding CEI, Mr. Smith served as the Director of Government Relations for the Council for a Competitive Economy, as a senior economist for the Association of American Railroads, and for five years as a Senior Policy Analyst at the Environmental Protection Agency.

Gregory Conko is the director of food safety policy at CEI. Mr. Conko was a research associate with the Capital Research Center. He graduated from the American University with a BA in political science and history.

Myron Ebell is Director of Global Warming Policy. Prior to coming to CEI, Mr. Ebell was policy director at Frontiers of Freedom and served as senior legislative assistant to Rep. John Shadegg.

Allison Freeman is an environmental policy analyst in land and natural resources at CEI. Ms. Freeman previously worked for Frommer's Magazines in New York City, and was a teacher at Taylor Elementary School in Cayce, South Carolina.

Paul Georgia is an environmental policy analyst at CEI and edits "Cooler Heads" newsletter covering the political, economic, and scientific aspects of the global-warming debate.

J. Bishop Grewell is a research associate with PERC, the Center for Free Market Environmentalism. He contributed to this book while a visiting fellow at CEI.

Sam Kazman is general counsel of CEI. In 1992, Mr. Kazman won a federal appeals court ruling that the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration had illegally concealed the lethal effects on highway safety of its auto fuel economy standards, the first judicial overturning of a fuel economy standard in the program's history.

Ben Lieberman is a senior policy analyst at CEI. He received his JD from the George Washington University.

Angela Logomasini is director of risk and environmental policy at CEI. Ms. Logomasini served as legislative assistant to Senator Sam Brownback from 1996 through 1998, advising the senator on energy and environmental issues.

Kendra Okonski served as a research assistant at CEI until the spring of 2001. Ms. Okonski graduated in 1999 from Hillsdale College with a BA in economics.

David Riggs is director of land and natural resource policy at CEI. Prior to coming to CEI, Dr. Riggs was senior fellow for economic and environmental studies at Center of the American Experiment. From 1995 to 1997, he held a joint appointment in the Texas A&M University System, where he worked as an economist for a state-level public agency and taught economics at Tarleton State University.

Daniel Simmons is legislative staff at the Committee on Resources, U.S. House of Representatives. He contributed to this book when he was an environmental policy analyst at CEI.

Jennifer Zambone is associate director of the Regulatory Studies Program at the Mercatus Center. Ms. Zambone has a BA in Biology and English from Washington and Lee University, where she also earned her JD. She contributed to this book as a policy analyst at CEI.

